

MAYIBUYE ENGAGEMENT TEAM LAUNCHES NATIONAL CONSULTATION PROCESS

MEDIA STATEMENT

The Mayibuye Engagement Team extends its heartfelt gratitude for the overwhelming support received during our recent press conference, as well as to the hundreds of thousands of South Africans who have already submitted their details to volunteer and participate in this historic initiative.

We are proud to officially launch the National Consultation Process, following the recent announcement by the former Secretary-General of the MK Party.

This nationwide engagement aims to involve the people of South Africa in answering a critical question:

Is there a need for a new political party rooted in the genuine needs and aspirations of the people?

As part of this process, we are calling on all members of the public to volunteer and join our engagement teams. These teams will play a key role in consulting with communities and collecting views from every corner of the country.

This is not just a campaign, but a listening process. It is an opportunity to hear directly from the people, to assess whether such a new formation is necessary, and, if so, to shape its values, priorities, and principles based on the lived realities of South Africans.

We invite all interested individuals to complete the short questionnaire linked below and indicate whether they would like to become part of the Mayibuye Volunteer Team.

Let the voices of the people lead the way.
